HARRY DALTON — EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT-GENERAL MANAGER

Harry Dalton is beginning his fourth season as Executive Vice President-General Manager of the Milwaukee Brewers and the 1981 team could be the finest squad he has fielded in his brief reign.

Dalton, a master tradesman, made the Brewers a solid contender for the Eastern Division Title on December 12, 1980 — the final day of the annual winter meetings — when he acquired Catcher Ted Simmons, a six-time All-Star; Rollie Fingers, the 1980 National League Rolaids Relief winner and the major league's all-time save leader; and Pete Vuckovich, a solid, young righthander, in a swap with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Having acquired players like Frank Robinson, Mike Cuellar, Pat Dobson and Don Buford while with the Baltimore Orioles and Nolan Ryan and Bobby Bonds while with the Angels, Dalton's latest acquisitions could be his best ever. Simmons should give the Brewers their finest all-around receiver in their history, while Fingers should be their finest reliever since the days of Ken Sanders. Vuckovich should also be a key performer in a starting rotation that was looking for one more solid replacement.

Their contributions shouldn't surprise Brewer fans, however, because the Brewers have averaged over 91 wins in Dalton's first three years at the controls, as compared to 69 their previous eight seasons in Milwaukee. In those three seasons, Milwaukee has a .5649 winning percentage (274-211), the fourth best record in baseball. Unfortunately, for the Brewers, three teams in their own division have the top three records — Baltimore (.606/292-190), New York (.602/292-193) & Boston (.565/273-210).

There have been changes since Dalton took the reins and the 1981 Milwaukee Brewer Spring Training Roster indicates that. There are only eleven players on the current Brewer roster that were on the 1977 Spring Training roster (Pitchers Jerry Augustine, Moose Haas and Jim Slaton; Catcher Charlie Moore; Infielders Sal Bando, Cecil Cooper, Jim Gantner, Don Money and Robin Yount; and Outfielders Dick Davis and Gorman Thomas). Ironically, two of those players — Slaton and Thomas — left the Brewers via the trade route in between and were returned to the roster by Dalton.

Two more of Dalton's most important acquisitions were Ben Oglivie, who has averaged .297 with 29 homers and 90 RBI in three seasons in Milwaukee, topping off his stay by tying Reggie Jackson for the 1980 American League Home Run Title; and, of course, George Bamberger, who managed the Brewers the past three seasons, becoming one of the most popular sports figures in Wisconsin's history.

Off the field, Dalton has also made changes, adding Ray Poitevint, Director of Scouting & Player Development; Walter Shannon, Assistant General Manager; Ray Scarborough, Special Assignments Scout; and Walter Youse, East Coast Scouting Supervisor. An excellent judge of talent, Dalton has also added Bamberger to his staff as Special Assistant to the General Manager, joining Dee Fondy in that capacity.

The Brewer farm system, which added a fifth club when Dalton came aboard, has also continued to improve, as four of the five clubs participated in the playoffs last season, with Stockton winning the California League and Holyoke the Eastern League Championships.

He has also used the Re-entry Draft wisely, having signed Slaton in 1979 and Roy Howell, a talented third baseman, this past winter, adding to his history of good selections. While with the California Angels, he signed Don Baylor, the American League MVP two years ago, Bobby Grich and Joe Rudi in the 1976 Re-entry Draft, and all were key members of the Angels' Western Division Champions in 1979.

Dalton came to the Brewers on November 20, 1977 from the California Angels where he was Executive Vice President & General Manager since October 27, 1971. He built a solid foundation for Owner Gene Autry, twice winning the "Organization of the Year" honors for the Angels.

He spent 18 years in the Orioles organization, beginning in 1953 as the Assistant Farm Director and ending in 1971 as the Vice President of Player Personnel. In between that impressive stint he was also Farm Director (1961-65), before taking over the top spot in 1966. Baltimore won four pennants and two world championships in his six years at the helm, winning the American League flag in '66, '69, '70 & '71 and the World Series in '66 & '70. The Orioles had a .603 winning percentage under his leadership, winning 100 games each of his last three seasons, while finishing first four times and second once.

A 1950 graduate of Amherst College, Dalton served as a First Lieutenant in the Air Force, serving 37 months and earning a Bronze Star for outstanding work as a combat press officer. A former sportswriter, he also worked for the Springfield (MA) Daily News for five years while in high school and college.

He makes his home in River Hills, Wisconsin, with his wife, Patricia, and their daughters, Kim, 18, Cindy, 15, and Debbie, 13.

The Milwaukee Brewers logo is beginning it's fourth year of existence, following its selection from over 2,000 entries in a month long contest that was open to the public, both amateur and professional, in October and November of '77. Tom Meindel, an Art History student at the University of Wisconsin - Eau Claire, designed the logo and earned the $2,000 first prize. The logo combines the lower case letters "m" and "b", the club's initials, to form a baseball mitt.

HITTING FOR THE CYCLE

Only two Milwaukee Brewers have ever hit for the cycle in a game, with Mike Hegan doing it back in 1976 and Charlie Moore accomplishing the feat in 1980. Hegan managed to hit a double, homer and a triple off Detroit's Mark "The Bird" Fidrych on September 3, 1976 in Tiger Stadium and completed the task by hitting a single off Bill Laxton. He finished the day with four hits in five at bats including a walk, scoring twice and driving in six runs. Moore hit for the cycle on October 1, 1980 at California, singling off Ed Halicki, homering off Chris Knapp, tripling off Dave Schuler and finally doubling off Mark Clear. He also went four-for-five in the game, with three runs scored and three RBI, adding two stolen bases, capping his best single game performance in his seven year career.
